Educational Data Consulting

A good portion of a district's staff time is lost due to the lack of proper training — something as simple as learning how to integrate data between different software will save the district thousands of dollars a year while also ensuring your state data is complete and accurate. Constant DPI reporting requirements have put a strain on time management. Unfunded mandates minimize the ability to hire the additional staff needed to complete the workload.

TC Networks can assist you with recouping staff time with integrating third-party software applications. Once integrated, that data is available without staff intervention. Data integrity increases as well.

After listening to and then witnessing schools miss out on state-allocated financial resources because of preset processes and misconstrued data in Skyward and other educational data software, TC Networks is extremely proud to announce that we have added an expert Skyward Consultant to our team. Cathy Timm brings almost 17 years of experience helping school administrators navigate the workflows of educational data to ensure the district is receiving every potential dollar from the state. Identifying and then rectifying just one incorrect student count could yield a district almost $9,000 a year.
